TROOPER

&

CHILLIWACK

LIVE AT THE RED ROBINSON SHOW THEATRE

FRIDAY, MARCH 27

Having accomplished record sales of over two million records, a couple dozen hits, sold out coliseums across Canada and a Juno Award for "Band of the Year," Trooper has become a Canadian legend. They have performed thousands of shows in virtually every city and town in Canada and are the first Canadian band to successfully tour from coast to coast in their home country. They continue to perform their huge collection of hits including "Two For The Show," "Santa Maria," "We're Here For A Good Time (Not A Long Time)," "Oh, Pretty Lady" and "Raise A Little Hell" with the vitality and sense of humour that has served them well on their steady march through the hills and valleys of Rock and Roll. And during their shows, they often encounter fans from three different generations in the audience only proving that Trooper remains ageless.

Rising out of the ashes of psychedelia in 1969, Canada's legendary Chilliwack released a total of twelve albums over a fifteen year period producing numerous Canadian and international hits including "Lonesome Mary," "Fly At Night," "Arms of Mary," and "California Girl" in the 70's and "My Girl (Gone, Gone, Gone)," "I Believe," "Whatcha Gonna Do" and "Don't Stop" in the early 80's. All this work led to fifteen Gold and Platinum certifications, a host of awards, high profile television appearances and coliseum concert tours. Their reputation for consistently powerful shows led one journalist to propose an insurance policy covering career damage to major international artists who had to appear on the same stage. Now in their thirty-ninth year, Bill Henderson and the band are rocking like never before. Hearing the revitalized Chilliwack is hearing those songs for the very first time ... all over again.
