DAVID WILCOX

LIVE AT THE RED ROBINSON SHOW THEATRE
 SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 14

Coquitlam, BC – After more than twenty years in the business – including extensive touring, five Gold and Platinum albums and numerous awards – it’s no stretch to say that singer-songwriter, David Wilcox deserves icon status. It was in the mid-70’s when at the young age of twenty-three, he led his first big-time band, David Wilcox and the Teddy Bears, hitting local stages as a flashy character with an oversized waxed moustache, a baggy suit and a flower in his lapel. It was during this time that he began writing an extremely broad variety of songs including “Old Cats” and “Don’t Let The Devil Take The Beat From The Lord.”

In the early 80’s, Wilcox shed the moustache and suit and truly hit his stride ... wherever he played, he left a trail of club and concert goers who danced, stomped and shouted their way to a great time. With consistent radio play of his songs, audiences were calling out for “Hot Hot Papa,” “Riverboat Fantasy” and other classic favourites. By the late 80’s, he moved from his gritty, live-in-the-studio roots to more produced synthesizer-and-drum program modern rock. The witty double-entendres of “Layin’ Pipe,” the sad requiem of “The Song He Never Wrote” sounding almost like Wilcox’s tribute to his excessive side and the sweet anthemic pop of “Lay Down In Your Arms” are key examples. His 1996 hit, “Thirteen Songs” featured acoustic-based music played with a small band. He embraced everything from sax-and-organ jazz (“Rainy Night Saloon”) to country storytelling (“Shotgun City”) to deep blues (“Three Past Midnight”) ... not to mention “God Is On A Bender” which may be one of the best songs Wilcox has ever done.

In 2002, he released Rhythm Of Love ... a CD which reflected the compelling hard-rocking sound of his first electric bands. His most recent album, Boy In The Boat was released in 2007 and featured tracks that were not only original but steeped in the raw funky tradition his fans have come to know and love. Wilcox will be performing at Boulevard Casino’s Red Robinson Show Theatre in November.
